

Belizehub.com selects La Milpa as one of the best places for birdwatching!

Source: 7 Belize Jungle Experiences That No Wildlife Enthusiast Can Miss \(belizehub.com\)

The best places you can traverse to get the most satisfaction if you're a bird lover are: Aguacate lagoon, a must-not miss, because the lagoon is perfect for swimming. Shipstern Nature Reserve and La Milpa are two other places that house some of the most exotic birds in the world.

5. Bird watchers' paradise

Amidst all of the natural wildlife in the Belizean jungles, there is no animal more diverse in species, than the birds that find homage in its robust foliage. Over 500 species of birds are waiting to be seen by the patient spotter, and there's no short supply of magnificent rarities. Here are a few of the most stunning bird species to look for while visiting Belize:

Jabiru! Belize is a good place to see this big, impressive stork! Plus, if you are lucky enough, you have these eye-catching avians to sight:

- Azure-crowned Hummingbird.
- Gartered Trogon.
- Lesson's Motmot.
- Amazon Kingfisher.
- Rufous-tailed Jacamar.
- Keel-billed Toucan.
- White-fronted Parrot.

The best places you can traverse to get the most satisfaction if you're a bird lover are: Aguacate lagoon, a must-not miss, because the lagoon is perfect for swimming. Shipstern Nature Reserve and La Milpa are two other places that house some of the most exotic birds in the world.